

THAT Circleville's celebration of the 100th anniversary of Independence on July 4, 1876, was one of the most successful demonstrations that the city has ever seen.

Every town and hamlet in the country participated in the nation-wide observance of this anniversary, but it is believed that few cities were so overwhelmingly successful with their programs as was Circleville.

Ring of bells and firing of guns at 4 a. m. officially opened the local celebration. On the night before every merchant in town who had a flag to sell had disposed of it. The city was gaily decorated in flags, bunting, evergreen, and flowers.

At 9 a. m. an excursion train bedecked with flowers and flags arrived at the W. Main-st depot. Five coaches filled with persons coming from Portsmouth and Chillicothe were in the train. The Circleville Guards, numbering 40 men, and led by Wittich's 16-piece band met the train and escorted the excursionists to the center of town.

Meantime, a meeting of war veterans was being held in the Eagle Hall. Battle flags of the various Ohio regiments in which Circleville men had served had been brought from the flag room of the state capital building at Columbus were on display to remind the 'vets' of their war days.

The Herald of the time relates that the colors of the 30th Ohio regiment attracted considerable attention for Captain John Groce, one of the bravest men who marched with Sherman to the sea, fell under it at Fort McAllister.

CAPTAIN John Brunner, father of Charles Brunner, Pinckney-st, was chairman of this veterans' meeting. He had served in the Mexican War of 1846 and his comrades attending the gathering included: Thomas Van Lear, Jacob Brown, Sr., Solomon Grauel, John Cradlebaugh, Benjamin B. Baird, Samuel Denman, and Webster Thomas.

The huge parade in the afternoon with Capt. John Pickering as chief marshal was the climax to the glorious celebration. More than 3,000 persons participated in this "extravaganza," as The Herald termed it. Mayor Jason Case, members of city council, four bands, the city's four fire companies, members of church and lodge organizations and many trade exhibit floats were in the line.

The parade moved through streets jammed with people. The buildings, covered with a perfect wilderness of flags, bunting, evergreen, and other decorations, created an expressive scene for the occasion. According to The Herald, of the buildings decorated, the Pickaway House, later the Boggs Hotel, attracted the most attention and received most enthusiastic comment.

The whole front of this building was covered with flags and bunting. Immediately above the door stood Misses Nettie Lilly and Minnie Marfield, each robed as the Goddess of Liberty. In a window above them was 10-year-old Frank Smith, dressed in the Continental uniform of George Washington, with Miss Maude Hickman, impersonating his wife, Martha, standing at his side.

After winding through the streets the parade made its way to the fair grounds on N. Court-st, where an imposing program had been arranged. Festus Walters, later to serve long and efficiently as a jurist, read the Declaration of Independence, "with much force and intelligence." The Herald reports:

AVIATRIX IS LOST IN AFRICAN JUNGLE

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 2.—New hopes for the safety of Lady Young, wife of the governor of northern Rhodesia lost on an airplane flight over the jungle, were raised today with receipt of reports a plane had been seen over northwest Mazabuka.

A search already two days old immediately was ordered concentrated there under the personal direction of the governor himself, Major Sir Hubert Young.

Lady Young was at the controls of her plane when it left Livingstone, northern Rhodesia, on Thursday. They failed to reach their destination, Lusaka, only 300 miles distant but separated from Livingstone by jungle lands infested by ferocious beasts.

Dr. J. Kerby, a government medical officer who had been treating her for influenza just prior to the trip, was with her.

Commissioners Will Carry on Relief Work

The county commissioners and Howard Irvin, relief director, in conference, have decided that until the Ohio legislature and Governor Davey adjust their differences the work relief load in Pickaway-co will be assumed by the county commissioners with local funds.

Better Classes of Books Being Read By Borrowers From Public Library

An "epoch-making" year in the history of the Public Library is recounted in the annual report of Miss Mary E. Wilder, librarian, to the trustees this week.

During the year the privileges of the library were extended to all residents of Pickaway-co on the same terms formerly restricted to Circleville. As a result response from the rural sections has been splendid, Miss Wilder reports, although no special services have been attempted. Expansion of the county service depends upon the extent of library support which this year proved satisfactory.

Addition of the Jones collection of "Nests and Eggs of Birds of Ohio" was another step forward. This fine collection which has been placed so that all library visitors may view and study the different pictures is highly valued. No other library in Ohio can boast such a collection.

The year was saddened by loss by death of two valued members of the board S. T. Rife and Edwin L. Daley.

"A slight loss in the number of books circulated during the year was more than balanced," Miss Wilder reported, "by the more serious character of the reading and in the amount of reference service provided by the library."

The most noteworthy fact pertaining to the circulation of books for home reading," Miss Wilder went on, "has been the general improvement in the classes of books read and the growing interest in literature of the highest type. Economical readjustments have developed new interests and the desire to make better use of reading opportunities."

The small decrease in the number of books issued still leaves the circulation far in excess of the years previous to 1932. The entire loss of 2,091 volumes can be considered in relation to the fact that 3,062 less books of fiction were issued than in the preceding year.

Non-Fiction Gains
"The greatest increases in interest were shown in religion, science, useful and fine arts and in travel and biography with smaller gains in other classes of non-fiction," Miss Wilder said.

Most of the books circulated through the county under the new ruling are of information and high type of recreational reading.

During 1934, 50,991 books were issued, a decrease of 2,091 compared to 1933, a gain of 9,998 over 1929, a gain of 18,254 over 1923 and of 25,393 over 1913.

Volumes were issued to: adults, 36,635; juveniles, 14,637; teachers on special cards, 723, and rentals, 1,792. Adult fiction led all other classes of books, 26,693 with juvenile fiction, 11,920, being second.

The problem of increased use with a depleted book stock was called to attention in the report of 1933 and much improvement has been made in this condition. More stable finances have made more book purchases possible.

26,410 Books Owned
The total number of books in the library is 26,410.

Repairs to the library rooms including additional book shelves, new floor covering, and repair to furniture have helped the institution. A storage room for unbound magazines and fireproof protection for valuable property are still needed, however, the report stresses.

The report acknowledge a number of services by individuals and firms.

Present officers of the institution are C. E. Groce, president; L. E. Goeller, vice president; Mrs. E. L. Price, Miss Nell Weldon, J. W. Johnson and Tom A. Renick.

The library staff includes Miss Wilder, librarian; Miss Gretchen Moeller, first assistant; Miss Wilmina Phebus, second assistant; Miss Jessie Cummings, substitute. Ralph E. Roby is the custodian.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON BONUS BILL IN NEXT WEEK

Leaders Intend to Pass Measure, Drop Into Senate's Lap

TWO BILLS STUDIED

Legion, Foreign War Veterans in Split

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Frankly ignoring the administration's attitude, house leaders today planned to bring the $2,000,000,000 soldiers bonus issue to a vote next week if possible.

The strategy of house leaders was to permit a bonus bill to pass—all predicted a whooping majority—and dump the issue into the lap of the senate.

Compromise proposals, leaders said, can be submitted to the senate when it wrestles with the problem.

With the ways and means committee planning to hold hearings only on Monday and Tuesday, it was possible that the house may act on the bonus issue Thursday.

Byrns Is Pledged

In rushing the bonus proposal to a vote, Speaker Joseph Byrns is carrying out a promise made long before congress met. The promise, it is said, was necessary to gain votes needed to charge the required number of signatures to a petition to discharge a committee from 145 to 218. With the 218 rule house leaders believe they can halt other anti-administration bills.

The real house struggle, it was conceded, is between the bill of Rep. Vinson (D) Kentucky, backed by the American Legion, and the bill of Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, supported by the veterans of foreign wars.

While the Vinson bill merely provides for payment out of the treasury, and provides no taxes, the Patman bill calls for issuance of "greenback" currency.

With the inflation bloc backing the Patman bill, its passage over the legion measure was predicted by most of the house leaders. A vote on both bills was promised.

Belgrano to Testify

National Commander Frank Belgrano, who rejected "peace offers" of the veterans of foreign wars, planned to testify before the ways and means committee in behalf of the Legion bill. His entire national legislature committee will be present.

Besides the son, two daughters survive.

BRUNO'S DEFENSE FUND IS REACHED

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 2.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's lawyers apparently have raised all the money they need to finance his fight to escape death in the electric chair as the slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

This was indicated here today by persons close to the defense who declared more than $20,000 had been raised since a Hunterdon county jury found Hauptmann guilty of first degree murder several weeks ago.

It is understood that $10,000 came in hand in letters that averaged as many as 500 a day, immediately after Hauptmann's wife and lawyers made their public appeal for aid. The remainder was collected more slowly, with the final lump being $1,500 collected at a New York City mass meeting earlier this week.

HARD DRIVING TEAM UPSETS COUNTY MEET

Leads Champions From Start; Walnut, Darby, Deercreek Win Tilts

CROWD IS AMAZED

Darby-Walnut Game to be Hard Fought

A rip-roaring team of demoball handlers representing the Scioto-twp school, Commercial Point, came out of the north Friday to completely upset the annual Pickaway-co basketball tournament by defeating New Holland's highly rated team, 25-17.

The score doesn't matter but the fact that, with the exception of a moment at the outset of the final period when New Holland tied the score at 16-all, Scioto outplayed the defending champions and conquerors of a fine Ashville team left the crowd of fans in a daze. The boys of Coach John Barricklow did everything in the same manner as that team which came to the tourney five years ago to sweep all opposition aside winning the meet. That team was coached by John Barton, who as superintendent is now Barricklow's boss.

Meets Deercreek

As a result of the upset the Scioto-twp team will meet Deercreek-twp, victor over Jackson, 28-22, in a semifinal contest at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The other semi-final game starting at 2 o'clock Walnut-twp, victorious over a fighting Atlanta team, 31-23, tangling with the tall Darby-twp team, which turned back a game Pickaway quintet, 19-16, in one of the prettiest games of the tournament.

At 4 o'clock the girl's consolation game between Darby and Walnut was scheduled.

This evening's program starts at 7 o'clock when the Ashville and Monroe-twp girls tangle for the title in a battle that should shake the foundations of the CAC gym. Both teams are fast, well-coached and have the fighting spirit needed to make winning teams. The result is a toss-up.

The boys' consolation game which will decide third place will be between the losers of this afternoon's semi-final tilts and starts at 8 o'clock.

Then comes the boys' championship game at 9 o'clock.

After the evening's festivities have been completed trophies will be awarded the victorious teams.

Friday's games started with Pickaway, winner of a bye through the first round, meeting the tall Darby team paced by brilliant Bob Green.

Pickaway took an early lead and was on top 5-2 at the quarter and 12-9 at the half. The third period found the teams only one point apart Pickaway still leading 16-15. A basket by Lift on a pretty pass from Green and free throws by Green and Ruff gave Darby four points in a hard-fought final period while Pickaway went scoreless.

Art Kaiser Hot

Walnut trailed 9-14 at the end of the half with the scrappy and well-drilled Atlanta team but Art Kaiser put on a one-man show in the third period to ring up five baskets giving his team a 21-17 lead at the end of the session. Walnut was gaining power as the game ended while Atlanta, led by a clever and deceptive cager, Stevenson, had done its worst.

Then came the thriller of the tourney. New Holland had been making plans for a basketball banquet. The stage was set and Scioto was to be nothing more than a stepping stone toward New Holland's fourth successive county title. But something happened.

Last of Book Review Series Heard Friday

Friday night brought to a close the series of book reviews given by Mrs. Depew Head, of Columbus, and sponsored by the Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church.

These reviews of current literature have been satisfying in intellectual stimulus, in awakening greater interest in new books and the problems they present. They have also been successful financially, and the Westminster Bible class takes this opportunity of thanking the public for its support and interest.

The book given last night was autobiographical, "The Testament of Youth," by Vera Brittain. The real test of a book review is to induce a thoughtful reading of the book. Mrs. Head's reviews have had that faculty and a wide reading of "The Testament of Youth" would be productive of much good.

The book is accredited with being the strongest book which has come from the World War. It covers the period from 1900 to 1925. Arnold Bennett said "The greatest war books would appear twenty years after." That period is here.

One constantly feels in reading the book that here is not a mass of theories but actual and poignant experiences told by the one who lived them.

The author presents not the glamour of war but its horror, its futility, its stupidity, its sordidness. The world gave the flower of its manhood to be slaughtered, those who were destined to be philosophers, poets, artists, statesmen—and the sufferings of the world today are because it has only second-rate men to govern it.

The book is tragic yet not depressing. It should be read by men and women. A 1934 book, it is still being read, discussed and reviewed. It is hoped it will continue to be a powerful factor in hastening the day when war shall be no more.

At the close of the lecture many of the audience expressed a desire to have another series of reviews next winter.

The program opened with George Roth leading the group in several songs. George was assisted by Dick Plum at the piano.

Ned Plum, master of ceremonies, introduced the first speaker, Ed Ebert who spoke on the origin of the Stoooge club and the possibility of the Stoooges sponsoring a drive to obtain more bleachers for the football field.

The second speaker, Mr. Gephart talked about the team in general and pulled some good jokes on the members. Mr. Gephart went on to explain that in order to have winning athletic teams, it is necessary to have the backing of the student body.

Coach Herberholz expressed his sincere thanks to the Stoooge club for boosting the team and getting much enthusiasm at the games.

Tom Kirwin, captain of the basketball team, expressed his thanks, in behalf of the team, to the Stoooge club for sponsoring the trips to out-of-town games.

This was the first banquet, honoring the basketball team, since 1931 when Circleville won the C. B. L. championship.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS FOR PRESENTATION

The Circleville High School orchestra was well received when it played at the Lutheran Parish House, last Wednesday and Thursday evening, for the presentation of "Hulda in Holland," given by the Luther League of that church.

The numbers included: 10th Regiment March, Gate City March, Intermezzo Surprise, Sorority Informal, Caravan Club, Panama Exposition and a bass solo, Neapolitan Nights, by Carl Boggs.

"Practice Makes Perfect"

This appears to have been the idea the Ashville girls had in mind when they held basketball practice in our gymnasium Friday afternoon prior to the tournament in which they defeated the Darby township girls.

The primary purpose of the practice was to accustom themselves to glass back bankboards.

RED AND BLACK TO PRINT "WHO'S WHO"

In this and the next eight issues the Red and Black will publish the pictures of nine outstanding members of the Senior class, with their records in high school. This group constitutes the Who's Who for the class of 1935.

This custom, begun last year, created considerable interest. With the vote of the journalism class as a basis the group of nine was named by a faculty committee consisting of Miss Watson, the Senior class advisor, Mr. Glenn, advisor of the Red and Black; Mr. Gephart and Mr. Fischer.

The selections were made because of participation in school activities, scholastic achievement, and personality.

Who's Who In C. H. S.

OTIS MADER

NO LIST of Senior celebrities could be complete without the name of Otis Mader.

To make a list of the activities in which this outstanding senior is engaged is equivalent to making a list of the activities of C. H. S. Of even greater significance is the fact that the subject of this sketch possesses a personality which will take him far in any line of work which he chooses to enter.

Otis is business manager of the "Circle", the 1935 yearbook. He was elected president of the Social council at its organization this year.

In addition to being an honor student he is vice-president of the Hi-Y and a member of the E. M. S.

In athletics Otis has also made himself outstanding, as he was awarded a letter in football this year, a member of his class basketball team, and a candidate for baseball.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Mader, N. Court-st.

Student Opinion

Question: What do you think of the "Tigers" entering the district tournament?

Tom Kirwin captain of varsity: I am glad the "Tigers" will play in the Central District Tournament because we have a chance to meet with teams that we have never played before. The teams are more evenly matched this year than in several previous years.

Jim Henderson, cheerleader: I think the "Tigers" have proven their ability in the last few games. I say, "More power to them in the tournament."

Doris Moffitt, senior: It is a fine idea for our school to be represented. More boys will go out for basketball if they have a chance to play in an important tournament.

Willard Friley, captain "Reserves": Judging from the appearance of the Columbus teams, we should be able to do a great deal in the Tournament this year. Here's hoping for a victory.

Dorothy Fohl, senior: I think the "Tigers" will make us proud of them in the tournament. They are entering full of pep and with plenty of what it takes to win.

GIRLS GIVE TALK BEFORE ROTARIANS

An interesting discussion on the subject of inflation, was delivered to the members of Rotary club at its meeting last Thursday noon by Matilda Davin and Ann Denman, students of Circleville high school.

Arguments for the affirmative were presented by Miss Davis while Miss Denman took the opposite side of the question.

The program was under the chairmanship of Mr. Durward Dowden.

Judging from the applause which the girls received their talks were highly appreciated.

Both girls are juniors.

SELECT SENIORS TO TAKE TESTS

Faculty Committee Names Sixteen For Scholarship Exams

Sixteen seniors have been appointed by the faculty committee, tests, Department of Education and to take the General Scholarship test, sponsored by the State Department of Education and to be given Saturday, March 23.

The sixteen seniors are: George Ammer, Marianne Bennett, Carl Boggs, Elsie Brehmer, Marie Briner, Virginia Caskey, Tom Conrad, Horace Gilmore, Lydia Given, Bernice Lorton, Otis Mader, Mark Maxey, Doris Moffitt, James Reichelderfer, Betty Sayer, and Doris Schreiner.

The requirements for taking the test are: any student in the upper 35% of his graduating class is eligible; other seniors may participate upon the recommendation of their principal. Seniors whose scholastic attitudes and behavior are satisfactory and who will graduate at the end of this school year, 1934-35, or who will graduate in January, 1936, are eligible.

Some commercial students in the upper 35% of the class have not had the necessary mathematics and science to compete.

The following five subjects given will be: English, history, mathematics, science, and social science.

These examinations have been held for the last six years.

SPEAKER PREDICTS "A PLASTIC AGE"

Predicting that the next age the country will pass through will be the plastic age was the main point stressed by Mr. Ray Rowland in his speech before the assembly Monday.

He explained how soy beans, after passing through different processes, could be made into tile floors, automobile steering wheels, and horn buttons.

Mr. Rowland had an interesting exhibit of the different by-products of the soy bean such as soy bean oil, baby meal, and livestock food.

The speaker compared the soy bean market and prices in the past with those which should come in the future. He also predicted a large increase of acreage in the next few years.

BEXLEY BOOKED FOR 2 BASEBALL GAMES

Bexley has already been booked for two games this spring and several other schools are being considered as opposition for the first baseball team at Circleville high school in several years, which was organized and started practice last week.

The battery practice began in the gym with candidates plentiful. John Jenkins, Laddie Goeller, Harry Richey, Norman Coleman, Don Morris, and Dick Plum are the aspirants to the pitching staff while James Thorne, Ned Harden, George Roth, Raymond Adkins, Joe Bell, and Willard Friley are trying out as catchers.

Infield and outfield candidates will get their first work out as soon as the weather permits.

The ball team has been approved by the Board of Education, Principal Gephart and Supt. Fischer and plans for backing the team are under way.

The Kiwanis club has already donated ten dollars and like sums are expected from several other organizations of the city. This money will purchase catchers' outfits, balls, and other articles and pay for transportation in home and home games.

Olympic Champion Demonstrates 'Kick'

"Hitch kicking" was demonstrated to the student body Friday morning in the gym by Robert Lynn.

In 1928 Lynn won the Olympic championship in hitch kicking held in Amsterdam. His record which still stands is 9 feet 7 1/2 in.

Mr. Lynn is in San Francisco. He belongs to the San Francisco Olympic club. Their basketball team plays in different parts of the country. Last week they played a game in Dayton, Ohio.

Class Plans Museum

A project which should arouse the interest and curiosity of all the high school students is the museum which is being planned by the members of the biology classes.

A number of sponges, corals, and sea urchins which were recently sent to the school by Dr. B. R. Baies, who is visiting in Florida, will be placed in the repository.

CITIZEN WARNER

WITH a record of 19 years on the Circleville police force, 10 years as chief of the department, William H. Warner is now a private citizen. His retirement March 1 closed an interesting episode of his life history, and he can now enjoy his remaining years in the quietude of his home, or among his friends and acquaintances of many years' standing.

Hale and hearty at 78 years of age, the retiring chief leaves behind him a record of efficient service to the public as a police officer, faithful and conscientious in the performance of his duties, kind in his manner to those with whom he came in contact in his official capacity, friendly and generous toward all mankind.

Public officials, particularly peace officers, naturally make enemies in the performance of their regular duties—enemies both outside and inside the law—but to a conscientious official it is all in the day's work, the performance of an obligation to society which provides for his employment and pays his salary. But it can well be said of Chief Warner that he retires with the good will of an entire city and community, the residents of which appreciate his years of splendid service and wish for him peace and contentment for the remainder of his allotted time.

The new chief, William F. McCrady, appointed by Mayor W. B. Cady, is another old-timer in the service and his appointment meets with general approval. Mr. McCrady has been connected with the police department for 18 years and is recognized as a capable official. The large number of endorsements given him for the appointment is a testimonial of his high standing as an officer and as a citizen, and his promotion to chief of the department is one of merit.

The Herald, along with a host of friends, extends hearty congratulations to the new chief.

ESSENTIALLY A COWARD

HOW courageous are the Dillingers and the Barrows, the Floyds and the Nelsons and the rest of the gentry who enter banks in daylight, fight their way out in a blaze of machine-gun and revolver fire and live from day to day in a close intimacy with death?

The question has been asked many times during the course of the successful crusade against them and the answer usually given is confirmed by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, a noted Chicago psychiatrist, who has examined hundreds of criminals and who believes that the average desperado is utterly devoid of true courage.

The criminal walks unflinchingly into danger often because a low mentality and a lack of imagination enable him to do so. A peace-loving citizen, Dr. Hoffman points out, would exhibit unusual courage in doing some of the things a desperado does, because he would be doing it when he has knowledge of probable consequences.

Dr. Hoffman has found that nine out of ten criminals wilt and give pitiable evidences of a broken, fear-stricken spirit when their guns are taken from them or they are locked in cells. Basically, the man who takes human life as if it were a cheap commodity is a coward.

ORDEAL OF LONELINESS

WHEN the news came to the outside world that Admiral Byrd had left the main camp at Little America and had undertaken a long, lonely vigil with the attainment of scientific purposes in view, there was considerable speculation as to the reasons why he did not take with him at least one companion.

After determining that it was impossible to take food for more than two men to the advanced camp, Admiral Byrd decided to go alone because of his belief that it was psychologically impossible for only two men to live through the period of unbroken darkness together, at least on satisfactory terms. He feared a temperamental clash.

There is psychological opinion and also actual experience to support the soundness of Admiral Byrd's theory. Loneliness plays havoc with the nerves of men and it is known to have transformed close friends into bitter enemies.

Look before you leap, as the ancients advised. You may jump in front of a bigger car.

Now all we need is a way to sell these higher-priced goods to people who have no money

Banditry is wicked. Nice people never steal anything except the gasoline in exposed tractors.

You needn't make a better mouse-trap to have the world make a path to your door. Just get your name on a sucker list.

It's nice to be brave. Then you needn't say things to get yourself in trouble just to prove that you aren't afraid.

It's a queer kind of thrift that would save a dollar until times are so good it will no longer buy two dollars' worth.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Scioto boys and Ashville girls were Pickaway-co's new high school basketball champions as a result of their play in the most sensational county tournament ever staged here.

March came in like a lion. The thermometer registered 11 degrees above zero in Circleville.

Jeremiah Aughorn, 85, prominent resident of Williamsport died at his home in that village after an illness of several months.

15 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Fred L. Pickardt returned from Hollywood Calif., where she spent the winter months with her daughter, Mrs. Wid C. Gunning.

Lloyd Jones, Circleville, commenced practicing medicine at Gnadenhutten, a Moravian settlement near New Philadelphia.

The highest temperature for the month of February, 1920, was 55 degrees, registered on the 2nd, and the lowest was zero, registered on the 16th.

25 YEARS AGO

Hoffman, Wilson & Marion commenced tearing down the old brick house on Watt-st., east of Taylor's livery barn, and will build a modern double house on the site.

Ires Bros., plumbers, rented the room at 323 E. Main-st., one door west of Smith's grocery.

Buttons advertising the centennial were being distributed. The buttons bore the words, "Circleville Centennial," along with an outline of the old Pickaway-co court house.

Little Sister

CHAPTER 55

LEILA PUSHED the ring into Orton's limp astonished hand. And then, most discourteously and inexcusably, she stepped out of his relaxed hold and walked deliberately through the whirling couples, across the floor and out to the door and over to the parking space. Her own car, in which her family had come—but wouldn't return—stood there unlocked.

She stood by it, and cast one last glance behind through the opened doors of the ballroom. Orton's first motion to follow her had been done by his horror of scenes in public. He turned wildly three times. He then cut in on some innocent Fernwood Gardener whose girl he had never met, and danced out of sight. What happened to the star thus made Leila did not stop to discuss.

She dragged out the floorful of family possessions, wraps, umbrellas, etc., and transferred them to the floor of Mrs. Johnston-Hedges' big car. She got into her own car and drove straight home as she was in her blowing yellow satin, careless of the fact that she had checked her black velvet coat in the checkroom. She drove the car down the driveway and left it standing for somebody else to run into the garage. She walked over to the dog run and woke up Jane, careless of the chorus of yelps she stirred up. She took Jane into the house and presented her with that delicious boon, the foot of her bed to sleep on. She dropped her clothes in an untidy bed-like circle.

She took a long hot bath with bath salts and a long cold shower. She washed her hair, crazily enough, rubbing the towel through its short chestnut curls with a refreshing sense of rubbing off Orton's last pat on it. She was clean and free of all the Hedges in the world.

She turned over, relaxed, stretched wide and went deep, deep asleep. "Thanks to Jane, on the bed of course, Leila was awake long before the rest next morning. She dressed and made herself some coffee, and went out to the run to contemplate her dogs. Her own private dogs. There they were, all frolicsome and joyous this morning, much obliged for fresh-pumped water and kind words from their mistress, and hoping for a little run if the goddess was kind. She was. She took them for a long walk around by the sound, the whole procession except some puppies and a chaperone for them. Oh, how nice dogs were! How much nicer than people!

She brought them back, she put some back behind the wiring and left the more trustworthy out about the grounds as usual. She sat down under her oak at the back of the house and took Jane in her lap for a little exchange of affection.

Looking up, she perceived that justice—or doom—whatever you like—impended. Mrs. Johnston-Hedges was an early riser. It had always been her boast, or one of them, that no matter when she retired, she always rose and breakfasted at 8. Majestic and dark-browed in her tweeds, her stick, her double eyeglass, she bore down on Leila.

"Leila," she said inevitably, in her most resonant voice—Jane yipped with a sense of guilt—"what is this I hear?"

"Won't you sit down?" asked Leila, indicating the grass. "If you mean that I broke off with Orton, you heard correctly."

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges did not sit down. She stood over Leila, leaning on her stick, with an expression darker than any Leila remembered since she had thrown snowballs at the lady's gardener when she was 7. Utter majestic pitying condemnation.

"I am disappointed. I am very much disappointed in you, Leila. You are not what I thought you. It may be, perhaps, all for the best," she went on, in a manner which belokened to one who knew her well—that she was good for 20 minutes, "that a girl of the unstable type you have shown yourself to be should not marry my Orton. At one time I supposed Bessie to be the neurotic and unstable one of the family. Added to that, dear Minnie, though a beautiful character, has never had a strong mind. But your own early behavior, together with the knowledge of the splendid generations behind you, balanced this in my ideas for a time. I supposed you the wife for Orton. Your late behavior has convinced me that I was wrong. I am not one of those who hesitate to say it—I was wrong!" She paused to let this sink in. Jane cowered, and tried to remember what she had done, but Leila found herself unshaken. She sat still and waited. She should have stood politely before her elder, but after all, her character was gone no matter what she did, and the grass was more comfortable.

"But I feel," her ex-mother-in-law, elect continued, waving a large tan-gloved hand, "that I owe it to you to say one thing. Although you have slipped from all the traditions and beliefs of Fernwood Manor, though your behavior, not alone with Orton, but in general of late, has not been well bred, not the act of a lady, not—" she paused for her last crash of horror—"that of an old married woman—I owe it to you to tell you that if you do not act quickly you may lose Orton. He told me so last night. 'Mater,' he said, 'while I know Leila's behavior last night was merely that of an overstrung and childish girl, she has come close to losing me for good. I have always regarded Betty as an undesirable sister-in-law, but under your training she and Addison have become much more nearly what I approve of, while poor Leila, I am afraid, has been retrograding. She will have to come to me herself and express regret.' That is what he said to me—of course in more masculine words—and I owe it to you to tell you so."

She paused and stood towering. "Well, you have," Leila said mildly. "They wanted to keep her! Was it—she was becoming a very suspicious girl—was it by any chance that Harriet Huntington's daughter-in-law's sister was a good person to have in the family?"

"Then—" "I meant it, Aunt Florrie." The last bridge was burned. And the smoke, going up, looked wonderful. She looked up at Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, and her heart was light. Never another sermon—never another moment or hour of adjustment of submission, of doing her duty and being sober and old and the right-minded meek Madison sister! Through!

"I will say no more, my poor child," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, preparing to move away. "For your aunt's sake, and for the sake of Bessie and Addison, with their splendid civic virtues, I promise always to be your friend, no matter how far you stray from the ideal I once believed you to follow. Goodday."

Poems That Live

THE NEW ARRIVAL

There came to port last Sunday night

The queerest little craft,
 Without an inch of rigging on;
 I looked and looked—and laughed.

It seemed so curious that she Should cross the Unknown water,
 And moor herself within my room—

My daughter! O, my daughter!
 Yet by these presents witness all
 She's welcome fifty times,
 And comes consigned in hope and love—

And common-metre rhymes.
 She has no manifest but this;
 No flag floats o'er the water:
 She's too new for the British
 Lloyds—

Ring out, wild bells—and tangle
 ones too;
 Ring out the lover's moon.
 Ring in the little worsted socks
 Ring in the bib and spoon.

Ring out the muse, ring in the nurse,
 Ring in the milk and water.
 Away with paper, pen, and ink—
 My daughter! O, my daughter!

Acid Dyspepsia Associated With Ulcers of the Stomach

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE many forms of dyspepsia due to many causes. In some the complaint is a loss of appetite and a heavy, draggy feeling in the abdomen, with what the patients call "illnesses," and usually constipation. When the stomach contents of such patients is examined chemically, it is found that the amount of hydrochloric acid normally present in the gastric juice is reduced so that digestive processes do not go on as usual.

There is another, and probably commoner form, however, in which the acid concentration of the gastric juice is greatly increased. For that reason, it is called "acid dyspepsia" or "hyperacidity."

It is associated with ulcer of the stomach, too often for the connection to be accidental. Whether the ulcer causes the excess secretion, or whether the over-active gastric juice eats away a part of the stomach and causes the ulcer, is debatable. The chances are that some factor causes the loss of stomach surface, or, in other words, causes the ulcer, and that the excessive gastric juice keeps it open.

Whether acid dyspepsia can occur without ulcer is also a matter of opinion. Up to a few years ago it was generally assumed that it could.

Then the surgeons began to open up the abdomen in such cases and, led by the brilliant English surgeon, Berkeley Moynihan, showed that what was called "hyperacidity" by those who did not have the opportunity of actually seeing the stomach, is practically always associated with ulcer. This was also before the days of X-ray, and the confirmation of the X-ray gives to the diagnosis of ulcer a basis in fact. With modern means of examination it is possible to determine the presence of ulcer without going to the extreme of an abdominal operation.

The symptoms of ulcer as shown by these investigations are quite regular, and vary little in different cases. There is distress (discomfort rather than pain) in relation to meals. If the ulcer is in the stomach, the distress follows immediately after meals. If the ulcer is on the duodenal side, just outside the stomach, the distress comes on when the stomach is empty, just before meals, and is relieved by food. Only in the severe cases and those of long duration is there either nausea or vomiting. In spite of the digestive disorder there is usually no loss of weight. Vomiting of blood may occur if the ulcer erodes a blood vessel. The distress is almost invariably relieved by alkalis, such as baking soda or milk of magnesia.

The cause of this distress in ulcer has been ingeniously investigated. It is possible to have a person swallow a small balloon, with a hollow rubber tube attached to the balloon coming out of the mouth. The balloon can be blown up through this hollow tube and then the tube attached to a recording machine. Every movement the stomach makes is transmitted to the balloon and from it to the recording machine. This has been done over and over again in ulcer patients. When they have distress they say so and the record is so marked. Sometimes it is found that when the pain comes on in ulcer, the movements of the stomach are excessive, but usually it requires the introduction of hydrochloric acid into the stomach to cause the pain. This accounts for the good effects of the alkalis; they neutralize the excessive acid.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

HOW MUCH CAN SOUTH MAKE?

IT ALWAYS is a dangerous experiment to raise partner's opening game call. Partner may not hold game in his own cards. He may count upon you for two tricks at a suit make, or for at least one trick at no trumps. South had so strong a hand that he decided to bid 3-No Trumps. North reasoned unwisely when he jumped the call to 6-No Trumps. His argument was: "If my partner can bid game on his own cards, why cannot I raise him to a small slam upon three tricks in my own hand?" South might have been unable to utilize his partner's club honors.

Neither side was vulnerable. Counting upon the chances of winning at least one heart trick and one trick in spades, West doubled. When dummy went down, of course the declarer knew what the doubler must hold to expect to defeat the bid.

The opening lead was the 4 of hearts. Dummy's 3 forced East's J. The Q won the trick. There were visible one spade, one heart, six diamond and four club tricks or 12 tricks total. Like any able player South wanted to win just one trick over his contract. He wanted a grand slam.

The first step in the process of squeezing West was to run off six diamond tricks, to force several discards from West. That player followed suit to the first diamond lead, then he discarded all three of his low hearts. The fifth and sixth discards took from West his lowest spade and lowest club. Dummy let go three spades. What East did is of no importance. He never could win a trick in any suit.

The next four tricks were taken with club winners. Declarer stripped his hand of his last two hearts. West followed suit to three leads of clubs, taking him through the tenth trick. The holdings about the table were as shown below.

The other players are down to two cards. West must discard one of his three cards. He is squeezed. If he lets go his Ace of hearts, dummy's 10 will win the next trick and declarer's Ace of spades will win the thirteenth trick. If West lets go his 10 of spades, declarer's Ace will pick up the lone K and the Q will win the thirteenth trick, but of course West was not certain of that. He held his Ace of hearts and the declarer made his grand slam.

We can't afford it. Mrs. G.—I know it—but you know it is such a great satisfaction to me to see a man eat a meal without finding fault with the cooking.

TOURNEY FINALS BEGIN AT 7

Scioto took the ball on the first tip and had it three-fourths of the time from then on. Gulick and Hoover, Scioto forwards, proved two of the best ball diggers seen in a tourney in a long while. The Scioto defense tied up lanky Everett Landman at all times; the big center caged only two points. The sharp-shooting of Rasor and Gulick kept New Holland in hot water and before long it was a desperate Bulldog team trying to catch the elusive Scioto Indians. The early lead gained by the Barricklow boys was never relinquished although, as recounted before, New Holland tied the count at 16 at the outset of the final session. Rasor, who sprained his ankle at the half but came back in to remain through the rest of the game, put his team into the lead again and it remained there.

Scioto's first quarter lead was 8-3, at the half it remained five points, 12-7, while at the three-quarter mark the lead had been slashed to 16-14.

Both Teams Weak

The Deercreek and Jackson game was a comedy of errors with the Williamsport team being forced to accept a victory, 28-22.

The first period score, Williamsport leading, was 9-2, the half was 20-10 and the third period, 23-17. Carter and Stonerock led the Williamsport scorers with 10 points each.

Hanson, Deercreek center, missed five consecutive foul shots, made two, missed one, made one and missed two more. Keller played best for Jackson.

Scioto is almost certain to go through the Deercreek team, but again you never can tell. The Darby-Walnut game should be interesting with most attention to be paid Green and Kaiser, forwards on the respective teams. Coach Wib Griffith, of the Walnut team, is expected to put his ace, Ralph Dunkel, on the Darby ace while it is uncertain who Coach Joe Frasch will put on Kaiser.

Kroger Babb, though suffering from an injured side, is handling the whistle in his usual capable manner.

MUSKINGUM WHIPS OTTERBEIN TEAM

NEW CONCORD, Mar. 2—Muskingum college's cage squad braced its position in the Ohio conference today by defeating Otterbein, 48 to 35 last night.

If the Muskies defeat Mt. Union Tuesday and someone upsets Baldwin-Wallace in the latter's two remaining games, the local squad will garner the title.

The game last night marked the dry-towners' last of the year. They ended the season with nine conference wins and three defeats, a fine record for a school of its size.

Forgeries Cost 250 Million
Losses from forgeries total more than 250,000,000 annually.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Hitler and You

New Holland's crowd was for New Holland last night but everyone else was for Scioto—If Squirt Gulick would cut about a yard of hair off his head he will still be a better basketball player—Hoover, Scioto forward, handles the ball like the Waterloo team—Wilson, center, is a freshman—The New Holland-Scioto game was delayed a minute at the half when Ref Babb gave Barricklow time to get Rasor, crack guard, back on the floor; Rasor stumbled down the steps at the half and injured his ankle—A sub was necessary for a while but the sterling athlete went in as soon as he reached the court ***

Ater Hunting 5-Cents

Chink Ater, who sells ice cream and anything else you want to buy, remained in the gymnasium 90 minutes after the ball game was over hunting a nickel knocked out of his hand when he got in the road of the ball—Ching didn't know what to think of the defeat of his Bulldogs—Ashville joined its ancient rival, Scioto, in cheering after it was seen the Commercial Point boys had a chance—Ellsworth 'Red' Trego, star of the Scioto team five years ago and now a star athlete at Capital university, has been helping Barricklow with the team—Coach Al Kauber, of Ashville, did not attend Friday's games ***

Winfough in Center

As in every year that we can remember, Nelson Winfough of Five Pints, pardon us, Points, is straddling the 50-yard line—the center of the court—Bob Peters, Ashville and Walnut fan who is now the king fish of the state's liquor store, used to park right beside him but Governor Davey insists that Mr. Peters work office hours so he can't see the tournament—There is a Ralph Dunkel and a Ralph Dunkel in the tourney; the former is with Pickaway, the later is Walnut's pilot ***

BILL BEITNER ENDS OHIO CAGE CAREER

COLUMBUS, Mar. 2—Bill Beitner of Dover, captain of Ohio State University's cage squad, will retire down the curtain on his collegiate basketball career tonight when the Bucks meet Michigan.

MAY "SEED" TEAMS

It was the consensus of opinion among superintendents of various county schools, meeting in the office of Supt. McDowell, Saturday, that teams next year would be "seeded."

WISCONSIN TEAM CERTAIN OF TIE

CHICAGO, Mar. 2—Wisconsin's basketball machine, leading the Western conference race, tonight clashes with Chicago here at the midway with an assured tie for the title awaiting the Wisconsin Badgers should they win.

Undisputed possession of the conference championship will go to Wisconsin should Coach Bud Foster's men win tonight and follow up with a victory in their final game at Purdue next Monday night.

Ohio State and Michigan clash at Columbus in a game having no bearing on the title, although the Buckeyes still have a chance to finish as high as a tie for second or third place.

AVIATRIX IS LOST IN AFRICAN JUNGLE

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 2.—New hopes for the safety of Lady Young, wife of the governor of northern Rhodesia, lost on an airplane flight over the jungle, were raised today with receipt of reports a plane had been seen over northwest Mazabuka.

A search already two days old immediately was ordered concentrated there under the personal direction of the governor himself, Major Sir Hubert Young.

Lady Young was at the controls of her plane when it left Livingstone, northern Rhodesia, on Thursday. They failed to reach their destination, Lusaka, only 300 miles distant but separated from Livingstone by jungle lands infested by ferocious beasts.

Dr. J. Kerby, a government medical officer who had been treating her for influenza just prior to the trip, was with her.

Commissioners Will Carry on Relief Work

The county commissioners and Howard Irwin, relief director, in conference, have decided that until the Ohio legislature and Governor Dwyer adjust their differences the work relief fund in Pickaway-co will be assumed by the county commissioners with local funds.

Better Classes of Books Being Read By Borrowers From Public Library

An "epoch-making" year in the history of the Public library is recounted in the annual report of Miss Mary E. Wilder, librarian, to the trustees this week.

During the year the privileges of the library were extended to all residents of Pickaway-co on the same terms formerly restricted to Circleville. As a result response from the rural sections has been splendid, Miss Wilder reports, although no special services have been attempted. Expansion of the county service depends upon the extent of library support which this year proved satisfactory.

Addition of the Jones collection of "Nests and Eggs of Birds of Ohio" was another step forward. This fine collection which has been placed so that all library visitors may view and study the different pictures is highly valued. No other library in Ohio can boast such a collection.

The year was saddened by loss by death of two valued members of the board S. T. Rife and Edwin L. Daley.

"A slight loss in the number of books circulated during the year was more than balanced," Miss Wilder reported, "by the more serious character of the reading and in the amount of reference service provided by the library."

The most noteworthy fact pertaining to the circulation of books for home reading," Miss Wilder went on, "has been the general improvement in the classes of books read and the growing interest in literature of the highest type. Economical readjustments have developed new interests and the desire to make better use of reading opportunities."

The small decrease in the number of books issued still leaves the circulation far in excess of the years previous to 1932. The entire loss of 2,091 volumes can be considered in relation to the fact that 3,062 less books of fiction were issued than in the preceding year.

Non-Fiction Gains

"The greatest increases in interest were shown in religion, science, useful and fine arts and in travel and biography with smaller gains in other classes of non-fiction," Miss Wilder said.

Most of the books circulated through the county under the new ruling are of information and high type of recreational reading.

During 1934, 50,991 books were issued, a decrease of 2,091 compared to 1933, a gain of 9,998 over 1929, a gain of 18,254 over 1923 and of 25,393 over 1913.

Volumes were issued to: adults, 36,635; juveniles, 14,637; teachers on special cards, 723, and rentals, 1,792. Adult fiction led all other classes of books, 26,693 with juvenile fiction, 11,920, being second.

The problem of increased use with a depleted book stock was called to attention in the report of 1933 and much improvement has been made in this condition. More stable finances have made more book purchases possible.

26,410 Books Owned

The total number of books in the library is 26,410.

Repairs to the library rooms including additional book shelves, new floor covering, and repair to furniture have helped the institution. A storage room for unbound magazines and fireproof protection for valuable property are still needed, however, the report stresses.

The report acknowledge a number of services by individuals and firms.

Present officers of the institution are C. E. Groce, president; L. E. Goeller, vice president; Mrs. E. L. Price, Miss Nell Weldon, J. W. Johnson and Tom A. Renick.

The library staff includes Miss Wilder, librarian; Miss Gretchen Moeller, first assistant; Miss Wilmina Phebus, second assistant; Miss Jessie Cummings, substitute. Ralph E. Roby is the custodian.

BANK OFFICIAL BRINGS ACTION

Creditors' Committee For Maizo Mills Named In $5,650 Court Suit

John W. Hackett, receiver for the First National bank of Toledo, filed an action in common pleas court Saturday for $5,650 against a creditors' committee acting for the Maizo Mills, W. Main-st.

An injunction to prevent removal of equipment from the mill was granted by Judge J. W. Adkins. Named as the creditors' committee were Harvey Heffner, C. A. Leist, Charles H. May, Henry G. Binns and Frank B. Marble. The Maizo Mill was formerly owned by C. C. Truax.

The creditors' committee has been in operation since Oct. 1, 1931. Weldon and Weldon represent the plaintiff locally.

Hafey Divorce

Evelyn Roof Hafey, through her next friend, George Roof, today had filed suit for divorce from Bliss Hafey, whom she married in Newport, Ky., in 1934. She asks custody of a son, aged three months, and alimony for its support. Gross neglect of duty is charged.

Sterling Lamb is the plaintiff's attorney.

Hickey Divorce

Daisy Marie Hickey charges extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty in her divorce petition against William Hickey. They were married in October, 1908, and have five children, three of whom are minors.

The mother asks their care and alimony.

Leist and Leist represent her.

Will Case Argued

Attorneys representing heirs of the late Henry Puffinbarger argued in Ross-co common pleas court Friday over the Puffinbarger will. The case was appealed from probate court where the late Judge Abernathy of Circleville, executor of the will, had asked for a court construction of the will.

Probate Judge Marshall G. Penon had held that an interest set forth in the will vested on the death of the testator and was not contingent upon a life estate.

Attorneys C. W. Smith of McArthur and Lyle S. Evans of Chillicothe representing various heirs and legatees, were granted permission to submit briefs to Judge W. M. McKenzie.

EMPLOYEES PAID

All employees of Circleville have received their salaries in the last few days, the police, firemen and others who get their pay in the middle of the month waiting until a distribution of $2,432.56 was received from the county as the city's share of the October tangible distribution.

BURK TAKES LIQUOR JOB

Finance Chief Under White Succeeds Scobell; Served In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Mar. 2.—Clarence H. Burk, finance director under Governor White and author of the state milk control act, today became director of the Ohio department of liquor control.

He succeeded Joseph Scobell, Cleveland, elevated to the head of the state liquor monopoly by White when Col. John A. Hughes resigned in the closing days of the White administration.

Burk's home is in New London, Huron-co. He was a member of the legislature for three terms, resigning to become finance director in July, 1933. He has spent his life in the merchandising, banking and manufacturing business.

Gov. Davey said he had "entire faith" in the intelligence, ability, broad experience and high character of Director Burk. His first choice for liquor director was Oakley Spaght, of Stow, but the latter was found to be ineligible because of his late service in the legislature. He was then appointed assistant state welfare director.

COLUMBUS, Mar. 2.—Warden Preston E. Thomas today carried his fight against removal from office at Ohio Penitentiary to the common pleas court of Franklin-co.

ALL TESTIMONY IN

FIVE GRECIAN SHIPS SEIZED

Naval Officers Launch Revolt; Bombing Planes Strike Ship

ATHENS, Mar. 2.—With heavy casualties already recorded, government forces came to grips today with rebellious naval officers who seized five ships of the Greek fleet and launched a revolt against the government of Premier M. P. Tsaldaris.

Holding out bitterly despite earlier defeat of army rebels soon after insurgent elements in both branches of the nation's armed forces attempted a coup d'etat, the naval insurrectionists aboard the captured warships clashed with government airplanes in the sea of Candia off Crete.

(Editor's note: A Central News dispatch to London stated it was feared the death-roll would mount into the hundreds.)

Bombing planes dispatched from military and naval airports overtook the rebel warships Averoff and Niki at sea. The latter ship was hit by bombs and disabled.

The Averoff, however, put up stiff resistance. Government planes dropped two bombs but the rebels replied with 100 rounds of small cannon and machine-gun fire. Casualties in this clash were not known.

Coincident with the Averoff's resistance, the government ordered shore batteries along the coast to open fire on the rebel ships whenever they approach within range. The insurrectionists apparently were well armed, as each sortie by loyal forces met with sharp return of fire.

COUNTY TO RECEIVE $1,082 TAX CHECK

Pickaway-co during the next week will receive $1,082 as its share of a sales tax distribution, Joseph Tracy, state auditor, announced today.

Checks will be mailed to the county treasurers who will make payments on the basis of their budgets.

The total distribution in the state will be $690,388.16.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON BONUS BILL IN NEXT WEEK

Leaders Intend to Pass Measure, Drop Into Senate's Lap

TWO BILLS STUDIED

Legion, Foreign War Veterans in Split

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Frankly ignoring the administration's attitude, house leaders today planned to bring the $2,000,000,000 soldiers bonus issue to a vote next week if possible.

The strategy of house leaders was to permit a bonus bill to pass—all predicted a whooping majority—and dump the issue into the lap of the senate.

Compromise proposals, leaders said, can be submitted to the senate when it wrestles with the problem.

With the ways and means committee planning to hold hearings only on Monday and Tuesday, it was possible that the house may act on the bonus issue Thursday.

Byrns Is Pledged

In rushing the bonus proposal to a vote, Speaker Joseph Byrns is carrying out a promise made long before congress met. The promise, it is said, was necessary to gain votes needed to charge the required number of signatures to a petition to discharge a committee from 145 to 218. With the 218 rule house leaders believe they can halt other anti-administration bills.

The real-house struggle, it was conceded, is between the bill of Rep. Vinson (D) Kentucky, backed by the American Legion, and the bill of Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, supported by the veterans of foreign wars.

While the Vinson bill merely provides for payment out of the treasury, and provides no taxes, the Patman bill calls for issuance of "greenback" currency.

With the inflation bloc backing the Patman bill, its passage over the legion measure was predicted by most of the house leaders. A vote on both bills was promised.

Belgrano to Testify

National Commander Frank Belgrano, who rejected "peace offers" of the veterans of foreign wars, planned to testify before the ways and means committee in behalf of the legion bill. His entire national legislative committee will be present.

Funeral for Woman Burned to Death to Be Private at Rinehart's

Private funeral services for Mrs. Susan Moyer, mother of Mayor Charles Moyer, of Lancaster, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Rinehart funeral home, S. Scioto-st.

Rev. William Seamen, of Lancaster, will officiate with burial in Maple hill cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Sons.

Mrs. Moyer was burned to death in her home on W. High-st. early Friday when her clothing was ignited by a gas stove. She was found lying on the kitchen floor by William Hudson, grocery delivery boy.

Besides the son, two daughters survive.

BRUNO'S DEFENSE FUND IS REACHED

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 2.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's lawyers apparently have raised all the money they need to finance his fight to escape death in the electric chair as the slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

This was indicated here today by persons close to the defense who declared more than $20,000 had been raised since a Hunterdon county jury found Hauptmann guilty of first degree murder several weeks ago.

It is understood that $10,000 came in hand in letters that averaged as many as five a day immediately after Hauptmann's wife and lawyers made their public appeal for aid. The remainder was collected more slowly, with the final lump being $1,500 collected at a New York City mass meeting earlier this week.

New Arrivals

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Humphreys, of Amador, at 10:30 today at Berger hospital.

Mrs. Ida E. Conrad, S. Pickaway-co, announced the birth of a daughter, Saturday morning.

HARD DRIVING TEAM UPSETS COUNTY MEET

Leads Champions From Start; Walnut, Darby, Deercreek Win Tilts

CROWD IS AMAZED

Darby-Walnut Game to be Hard Fought

A rip-roaring team of demon ball handlers representing the Scioto-twp school, Commercial Point, came out of the north Friday to completely upset the annual Pickaway-co basketball tournament by defeating New Holland's highly rated team, 25-17.

The score doesn't matter but the fact that, with the exception of a moment at the outset of the final period when New Holland tied the score at 16-all, Scioto outplayed the defending champions and conquerors of a fine Ashville team left the crowd of fans in a daze. The boys of Coach John Barrieklow did everything in the same manner as that team which came to the tourney five years ago to sweep all opposition aside winning the meet. That team was coached by John Barton, who as superintendent is now Barrieklow's boss.

Meets Deercreek
As a result of the upset the Scioto-twp team will meet Deercreek-twp, victor over Jackson, 28-22, in a semifinal contest at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The other semi-final game starting at 2 found Walnut-twp, victorious over a fighting Atlanta team, 31-23, tangling with the tall Darby-twp team, which turned back a game Pickaway quintet, 19-16, in one of the prettiest games of the tournament.

At 4 o'clock the girls' consolation game between Darby and Walnut was scheduled.

This evening's program starts at 7 o'clock when the Ashville and Monroe-twp girls tangle for the title in a battle that should shake the foundations of the CAC gym. Both teams are fast, well-coached and have the fighting spirit needed to make winning teams. The result is a toss-up.

The boys' consolation game which will decide third place will be between the losers of this afternoon's semi-final tilts and starts at 8 o'clock.

Then comes the boys' championship game at 9 o'clock. After the evening's festivities have been completed trophies will be awarded the victorious teams. Friday's games started with Pickaway, winner of a bye through the first round, meeting the tall Darby team paced by brilliant Bob Green.

Pickaway took an early lead and was on top 5-2 at the quarter and 12-9 at the half. The third period found the teams only one point apart Pickaway still leading 16-15. A basket by Luff on a pretty pass from Green and free throws by Green and Ruoff gave Darby four points in a hard-fought final period while Pickaway went scoreless.

Art Kaiser Hot
Walnut trailed 9-14 at the end of the half with the scrappy and well-drilled Atlanta team but Art Kaiser put on a one-man show in the third period to ring up five baskets giving his team a 21-17 lead at the end of the session. Walnut was gaining power as the game ended while Atlanta, led by a clever and deceptive eager, Stevenson, had done its work.

Then came the thriller of the tourney. New Holland has been making plans for a basketball banquet. The stage was set and Scioto was to be nothing more than a stepping stone toward New Holland's fourth successive county title. But something happened.

ADKINS SUMMONS HIS COMMITTEE

George G. Adkins, chairman, has called a meeting of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the auditor's office. The nature of the business to be discussed was not disclosed although it is expected to be important.

After winding through the streets the parade made its way to the fair grounds on N. Court-st, where an imposing program had been arranged. Festus Walters, later to serve long and efficiently as a jurist, read the Declaration of Independence, "with much force and intelligence." The Herald reports.

Can we make our homes Christian? That is the question being asked by many parents. The answer is, Yes, if we are willing to pay the price in study and effort. We have swung a long way in our attitudes when as parents we say, as many are saying, We must make our children happy. There is something that has a prior claim, that is the building of strong character and making their lives useful to themselves and others. Without these, what we call happiness is a curse and not a blessing. The source of all true happiness is in right conduct. To this religion gives both the ideal and the inspiration. Religion, that is true religion, does not narrow, rather it enlarges the life. The church through its services gives vision to youth. Go to church tomorrow. Take a friend.

THE DYNAMIC OF RELIGION.

A man who meets danger through power from within himself alone is like an army with one line of defense. It may be a powerful army but the collapse of that one line means defeat and rout. The man who seeks a sense of power not only from within himself but from hardships and from examples of great souls has two lines of defense. If the first line wavers he can fall back on the second. The truly religious possess three lines of defense. He finds power not only in himself and his fellows—he also draws on the power of God. He has learned the dynamic of religion. The church is the house of God in which the dynamic of religion may be found. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Lesson for March 3

PETER UNMASKS FALSEHOOD AND HYPOCRISY

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:1-11; 8:18-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Ephesians 4:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's Friend Helps People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Stands for Truth and Honesty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Sin of Lying.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Modern Forms of Hypocrisy.

1. Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11).

"The new community formed after Pentecost is now for the first time called the Church. Since the Christians have now broken with Judaism the success of the new community depends upon its gaining recognition. The Church is now superseding the Messianic economy. It was to be God's dwelling place, as hitherto it had been in the Tabernacle and Temple. Their sanctity was now being transferred to the Church. This fact the Church itself must learn as well as the Jewish people who surrounded it.

2. Their judgment (vv. 5-10). Physical death was visited upon Ananias and Sapphira for their sin. They lied to the Holy Ghost in keeping back a part of the price of their land. They were not obliged to sell their land or, having sold it, to bring any of their money and place it in the common fund. People today are walking in the way of Ananias and Sapphira when they make a profession of Christianity for temporal gain and pleasure. Preaching the sermons of Moody, Spurgeon, etc., without giving credit is another form of this evil. God is passing judgment upon many for their sins of this kind (I Cor. 11:27-30).

3. The effect (vv. 11-16).

a. Great fear came upon the Church and upon all who heard of these things (v. 11). The Church should be regarded as holy because of its being the very dwelling place of the Most High God. Irreverence is an outstanding sin of this age.

b. Multitudes of men and women were added to the Lord (vv. 14, 15). The fame of Peter was spread far and wide, so that the people were anxious to come under his shadow. The proper recognition of the holiness of the Church, the body of Christ, will bring many to Christ for salvation.

c. Hypocrites did not dare to join (v. 13). The vindication of the holiness of the Church deterred none but hypocrites from joining. No unreligious person and nothing unhallowed has any place in the Church.

11. Simon the Sorcerer (Acts 8:18-24).

1. His wicked request (vv. 18, 19). When Simon saw that Peter's power to work wonders exceeded his own and that this power was received through the laying on of hands, he offered money for the gift. This act revealed his hypocrisy. He professed faith in Christ and was baptized, and even followed the apostles for a selfish end. Traffic in sacred things is called "simony" from the name of this sorcerer. Making merchandise of Christianity is committing the same sin. Using the name of Christ for the purpose of gain is to be guilty of this sin.

2. Peter's severe rebuke (vv. 20-22).

a. "Thy money perish with thee." This implies that Peter's judgment was that Simon was unregenerate and that he himself was in the way of perishing.

b. "Thy heart is not right in the sight of God." One whose inner life delights in God could not seek the Spirit's power for selfish reasons.

c. "Repent of thy wickedness and pray to God for forgiveness." While Peter recognized that this man was unsaved, he did not regard him to be beyond hope of salvation, but urged him to turn from his sin and ask for forgiveness.

d. "Thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity." The one and only thing for this man to do was to repent and sue for forgiveness. Simon requested Peter's prayer to the end that he might escape divine judgment.

Fear of Life

Life today is beset by fears. In the realm of money-making, fear of old age, fear of insecurity, fear in establishing a home. The difficulty is that many of us have been educated in fear. In many homes people are so trained in sensitiveness to the sharp edges of life that they become upset by fears, fears of failure and ill health particularly. An interesting story is told by Stefan Zweig of Marie Antoinette. She was an ordinary woman brought up in comfort and luxury, suddenly torn from her family by the revolutionists. Even her needles were taken from her so that she could not pick notes to her friends outside the jail. Finally after months of harassing, she was brought before the tribunal. To their surprise the tribunal found that this woman had so developed her spirit and courage that she was able to face her persecutors without flinching. "Tribulation" she wrote her mother, "first makes one realize what life is."

The greatest inward victory often comes through outward defeat.

Last of Book Review Series Heard Friday

Friday night brought to a close the series of book reviews given by Mrs. Depew Head, of Columbus, and sponsored by the Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church.

These reviews of current literature have been satisfying in intellectual stimulus, in awakening greater interest in new books and the problems they present. They have also been successful financially, and the Westminster Bible class takes this opportunity of thanking the public for its support and interest.

The book given last night was autobiographical, "The Testament of Youth," by Vera Brittain. The real test of a book review is to induce a thoughtful reading of the book. Mrs. Head's reviews have had that faculty and a wide reading of "The Testament of Youth" would be productive of much good.

The book is accredited with being the strongest book which has come from the World War. It covers the period from 1900 to 1925. Arnold Bennett said "The greatest war books would appear twenty years after." That period is here.

One constantly feels in reading the book that here is not a mass of theories but actual and poignant experiences told by the one who lived them.

The author presents not the glamour of war but its horror, its futility, its stupidity, its soridness. The world gave the flower of its manhood to be slaughtered, those who were destined to be philosophers, poets, artists, statesmen—and the sufferings of the world today are because it has only second-rate men to govern it.

The book is tragic yet not depressing. It should be read by men and women. A 1934 book, it is still being read, discussed and reviewed. It is hoped it will continue to be a powerful factor in hastening the day when war shall be no more.

At the close of the lecture many of the audience expressed a desire to have another series of reviews next winter.

BANQUET HONORS C. H. S. CAGE TEAM

Approximately 45 Stoooges and Stooege "Dads" attended the banquet given in honor of the high school basketball team Monday evening at the American Hotel Coffee Shoppe.

The program opened with George Roth leading the group in several songs. George was assisted by Dick Plum at the piano.

Ned Plum, master of ceremonies, introduced the first speaker, Ed Ebert who spoke on the origin of the Stooege club and the possibility of the Stoooges sponsoring a drive to obtain more bleachers for the football field.

The second speaker, Mr. Gephart talked about the team in general and pulled some good jokes on the members. Mr. Gephart went on to explain that in order to have winning athletic teams, it is necessary to have the backing of the student body.

Catch Herberholz expressed his sincere thanks to the Stooege club for hosting the team and getting much enthusiasm at the games.

Tom Kirwin, captain of the basketball team, expressed his thanks, in behalf of the team, to the Stooege club for sponsoring the trip to out-of-town games.

This was the first banquet, honoring the basketball team, since 1921 when Circleville won the C. E. L. championship.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS FOR PRESENTATION

The Circleville High School orchestra was well received when it played at the Lutheran Parish House last Wednesday and Thursday evening for the presentation of "Hallelujah" given by the Lutheran League of that church.

The members included: 10th Regiment March, Gate City March, Independent, St. Louis, Sorority Information, Core Club, Panama Exposition, and solo, Neapolitan Night by Carl Boggs.

"Practice Makes Perfect"

This appears to have been the idea the A. M. E. girls had in mind when they held basketball practice in their gymnasium Friday afternoon prior to the tournament in which they defeated the Darby team.

The primary purpose of the practice was to acustom themselves to glass back basketballs.

GIRLS GIVE TALK BEFORE ROTARIANS

A subject of discussion on the subject of education was delivered to the members of Rotary club at its meeting last Thursday noon by Madeline Drown and Ann Dennison, students of the Circleville high school.

Arguments for the affirmative were presented by Miss Davis while Miss Dennison took the opposite side of the question.

The program was under the chairmanship of Mr. Durward Dowden.

Judging from the applause which the girls received their talks were highly appreciated.

Both girls are juniors.

RED AND BLACK TO PRINT "WHO'S WHO"

In this and the next eight issues the Red and Black will publish the pictures of nine outstanding members of the Senior class, with their records in high school. This group constitutes the Who's Who for the class of 1935.

This custom, begun last year, created considerable interest. With the vote of the journalism class as a basis the group of nine was named by a faculty committee consisting of Miss Watson, the Senior class advisor, Mr. Glenn, advisor of the Red and Black, Mr. Gephart and Mr. Fischer.

The selections were made because of participation in school activities, scholastic achievement, and personality.

Who's Who In C. H. S.

The requirements for taking the test are: any student in the upper 35% of his graduating class is eligible; other seniors may participate upon the recommendation of their principal. Seniors whose scholastic attitudes and behavior are satisfactory and who will graduate at the end of this school year, 1934-35, or who will graduate in January, 1936, are eligible.

Some commercial students in the upper 35% of the class have not had the necessary mathematics and science to compete.

The following five subjects given will be: English, history, mathematics, science, and social science.

These examinations have been held for the last six years.

GIRL RESERVES PLAN BANQUET

Alumnae Members Invited to Event Latter Part of April

The Senior Girl Reserves are planning an alumnae banquet for all of the Girl Reserve members since the organization of the club. It was first organized in the spring of 1928 with Marie Kellstall as the first president.

The president for the years following 1928 included Grace Steele, Doris Peters, Cynth Carothers, Avenell Haecker, Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick.

The banquet will be held at the American Hotel Coffee shoppe the latter part of April.

Invitations will be mailed to all of the members of preceding years. The people on that committee include Martha McCrady, chairman, Virginia Cady and Mary Elizabeth Groce.

Mary Hall, Jane Drum, Alice Griner and Virginia Caskey will have charge of the program and decorations.

Doris Moffitt is president of the Girl Reserves, with Miss Watson, Miss Rains, and Miss Ryan as the advisors. The club now has 43 members.

Junior class singing now comes during the seventh period on Fridays, while the seniors vocalize each Wednesday from 3:00 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

The change in the music schedule was made to accommodate Junior class play practice.

NO LIST OF Senior celebrities could be complete without the name of Otis Mader.

To make a list of the activities in which this outstanding senior is engaged is equivalent to making a list of the activities of C. H. S. Of even greater significance is the fact that the subject of this sketch possesses a personality which will take him far in any line of work which he chooses to enter.

Otis is business manager of the "Circle", the 1935 yearbook. He was elected president of the Social council at its organization this year.

In addition to being an honor student he is vice-president of the B-Y and a member of the G. M. S.

In athletics Otis has also made himself outstanding, as he was awarded a letter in football this year, a member of his class basketball team, and a candidate for baseball.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Mader, N. Court-st.

STUDENT OPINION

Question: What do you think of the "Tigers" entering the district tournament?

Tom Kirwin, captain of varsity: I am glad the "Tigers" will play in the Central District Tournament because we have a chance to meet with teams that we have never played before. The teams are more evenly matched this year than in several previous years.

Jim Henderson, cheerleader: I think the "Tigers" have proven their ability in the last few games. I say, More power to them in the tournament.

Doris Moffitt, senior: It is a fine idea to let school boys be represented. Mr. Ebert will go out for basketball if they have a chance to play in a tournament.

Willard Friley, captain "Reserves": I think it is the appearance of the "Tigers" that we should cheer and root for in the tournament this year. Here's hoping for a victory.

Dorothy Fohl, senior: I think the "Tigers" will make us proud of them in the tournament. They are entering a lot of games and with plenty of what it takes to win.

CITIZEN WARNER

WITH a record of 19 years on the Circleville police force, 10 years as chief of the department, William H. Warner is now a private citizen. His retirement March 1 closed an interesting episode of his life history, and he can now enjoy his remaining years in the quietude of his home, or among his friends and acquaintances of many years' standing.

Hale and hearty at 78 years of age, the retiring chief leaves behind him a record of efficient service to the public as a police officer, faithful and conscientious in the performance of his duties, kind in his manner to those with whom he came in contact in his official capacity, friendly and generous toward all mankind.

Public officials, particularly peace officers, naturally make enemies in the performance of their regular duties—enemies both outside and inside the law—but to a conscientious official it is all in the day's work, the performance of an obligation to society which provides for his employment and pays his salary. But it can well be said of Chief Warner that he retires with the good will of an entire city and community, the residents of which appreciate his years of splendid service and wish for him peace and contentment for the remainder of his allotted time.

The new chief, William F. McCrady, appointed by Mayor W. B. Chady, is another old-timer in the service and his appointment meets with general approval. Mr. McCrady has been connected with the police department for 18 years and is recognized as a capable official. The large number of endorsements given him for the appointment is a testimonial of his high standing as an officer and as a citizen, and his promotion to chief of the department is one of merit.

The Herald, along with a host of friends, extends hearty congratulations to the new chief.

ESSENTIALLY A COWARD

HOW courageous are the Dillingers and the Barrows, the Floyds and the Nelsons and the rest of the gentry who enter banks in daylight, fight their way out in a blaze of machine-gun and revolver fire and live from day to day in a close intimacy with death?

The question has been asked many times during the course of the successful crusade against them and the answer usually given is confirmed by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, a noted Chicago psychiatrist, who has examined hundreds of criminals and who believes that the average desperado is utterly devoid of true courage.

The criminal walks unflinchingly into danger often because a low mentality and a lack of imagination enable him to do so. A peace-loving citizen, Dr. Hoffman points out, would exhibit unusual courage in doing some of the things a desperado does, because he would be doing it when he has knowledge of probable consequences.

Dr. Hoffman has found that nine out of ten criminals wilt and give pitiable evidences of a broken, fear-stricken spirit when their guns are taken from them or they are locked in cells. Basically, the man who takes human life as if it were a cheap commodity is a coward.

ORDEAL OF LONELINESS

WHEN the news came to the outside world that Admiral Byrd had left the main camp at Little America and had undertaken a long, lonely vigil with the attainment of scientific purposes in view, there was considerable speculation as to the reasons why he did not take with him at least one companion.

After determining that it was impossible to take food for more than two men to the advanced camp, Admiral Byrd decided to go alone because of his belief that it was psychologically impossible for only two men to live through the period of unbroken darkness together, at least on satisfactory terms. He feared a temperamental clash.

There is psychological opinion and also actual experience to support the soundness of Admiral Byrd's theory. Loneliness plays havoc with the nerves of men and it is known to have transformed close friends into bitter enemies.

Look before you leap, as the ancients advised. You may jump in front of a bigger car.

Now all we need is a way to sell these higher-priced goods to people who have no money.

Banditry is wicked. Nice people never steal anything except the gasoline in exposed tractors.

You needn't make a better mousetrap to have the world make a path to your door. Just get your name on a sucker list.

It's nice to be brave. Then you needn't say things to get yourself in trouble just to prove that you aren't afraid.

It's a queer kind of thrift that would save a dollar until times are so good it will no longer buy two dollars' worth.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Scioto boys and Ashville girls were Pickaway-co's new high school basketball champions as a result of their play in the most sensational county tournament ever staged here.

March came in like a lion. The thermometer registered 11 degrees above zero in Circleville.

Jeremiah Aughorn, 85, prominent resident of Williamsport died at his home in that village after an illness of several months.

15 YEARS AGO

Fred L. Flickard returned from Hollywood Calif., where she spent the winter months with her mother, Mrs. W. C. Gunning.

Lloyd Jones, Circleville, commenced practicing medicine at Gnadenhutten, a Moravian settlement near New Philadelphia.

The highest temperature for the month of February, 1920, was 56 degrees, registered on the 2nd, and the lowest was zero, registered on the 16th.

25 YEARS AGO

Hoffman, Wilson, & Marion commenced tearing down the old brick house on Watt-st, east of Taylor's livery barn, and will build a modern double house on the site.

Bes Bros., plumbers, rented the room at 323 E. Main-st, one door west of Smith's grocery.

Buttons advertising the centennial were being distributed. The buttons bore the words, "Circleville Centennial" along with an outline of the old Pickaway-co court house.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDERMER

CHAPTER 35

LEILA PUSHED the door open. Orton's lamp astonished her. And then, most disconcertingly and unexpectedly, she stepped out at her relaxed hold and walked deliberately through the whirling couples, across the floor and out to the door and over to the parking space. Her own car, in which her family had come—but wouldn't return—stood there unlocked.

She stood by it, and cast one last glance behind through the opened doors of the ballroom.

Orton's first motion to follow her had been downed by his horror of scenes in public. He turned wildly three times. He then cut in on some innocent Fernwood Gardner whose girl he had never met, and danced out of sight. What happened to the stag thus made Leila did not stop to consider.

She dragged out the floorful of family possessions, wraps, umbrellas, etc., and transferred them to the floor of Mrs. Johnston-Hedges' car. She got into her own car and drove straight home as she was in her blowing yellow satin, careless of the fact that she had checked her black velvet coat in the checkroom.

She drove the car down the driveway and left it standing for some body else to run into the garage. She walked over to the door and woke up Jane, careless of the chorus of yelps she stirred up. She took Jane into the house and presented her with that delicious boon, the foot of her bed to sleep on. She dropped her clothes in an untidy Bel-lie circle.

She took a long hot bath with bath salts and a long cold shower. She washed her hair, crazily enough, rubbing the towel through its short chestnut curls with a refreshing sense of rubbing of Orton's last pat on it. She got clean and free of all the Hedges in the world.

She turned over, relaxed, stretched wide, and went deep, deep asleep.

Thanks to Jane, on the bed of course, Leila was awake long before the rest next morning. She dressed and made herself some coffee, and went out to the garden to contemplate her dogs. Her own private dogs. There they were, all folksome and joyous this morning, much obliged for fresh-pumped water and kind words from their mistress, and hoping for a little run if the goddess was kind. She was. She took them for a long walk around by the sound, the whole procession except some puppies and a chariot for them. Oh, how nice dogs were! How much nicer than people!

She brought them back, she put some back behind the wiring and left the more trustworthy out about the grounds as usual. She sat down under her oak at the back of the house and took Jane in her lap for a little exchange of affection.

Looking up, she perceived that justice—or doom—of whatever you like—impended. Mrs. Johnston-Hedges was an early riser. It had always been her boast, or one of them, that no matter when she retired, she always rose and breakfasted at 8. Majestic and dark-eyed in her tweeds, her stick, her double eyeglass, she bore down on Leila.

"Leila," she said inevitably, in her most resonant voice—Jane yipped with a sense of guilt—"what is this I hear?"

"Won't you sit down?" asked Leila, indicating the grass. "If you mean that I broke off with Orton, you heard correctly."

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges did not sit down. She stood over Leila, leaning on her stick, with an expression darker than any Leila remembered since she had thrown snowballs at the lady's gardener when she was 7. Utter majestic pitying condemnation.

"I am disappointed. I am very much disappointed in you, Leila. You are not what I thought you. It may be, perhaps, all for the best," she went on in a manner which he tokened to one who knew her well that she was good for 30 minutes. "That a girl of the unstable type you have shown yourself to be should not marry my Orton. At one time I supposed Bessie to be the neurotic and unstable one of the family. Add to that, dear Leila, though a beautiful character, has never had a strong mind. But your own early behavior, together with the knowledge of the splendid generations behind you, balanced this in my ideas for Orton. Your late behavior has convinced me that I was wrong. I am not one of those who hesitate to say it—I was wrong!" She paused to let this sink in. Jane cowered, and tried to remember what she had done, but Leila found herself unshaken. She sat still and waited. She should have stood politely before her elder, but after all, her character was gone no matter what she did, and the grass was more comfortable.

"That I feel," her ex-mother-in-law, elected continued, waving a large tangle of hair, "that I owe it to you to say one thing. After all, you have slipped from all the traditions and beliefs of Fernwood Manor, though your behavior, not alone with Orton, but in general of late, has not been well bred, not the act of a lady, not—" she paused for her last crash of horror—"that of an old manorite. I owe it to you to tell you that if you do not act quickly you may lose Orton. He told me so last night. 'Mama,' he said, 'while I know Leila's behavior last night was merely that of an overstrung and childish girl, she has come close to losing me for good. I have always regarded Betty as an untrustworthy sister-in-law, but under your training she and Addison have become much more nearly what I approve of, while poor Leila, I am afraid, has been retrograding. She will have to come to me herself and express regret.' That is what he said to me—of course in more masculine words—and I owe it to you to tell you so."

She paused and stood towering. "Well, you have," Leila said mildly. (They wanted to keep her! Was it she was becoming a very suspicious girl—was it by any chance that Hedges' Huntingdon's daughter-in-law's sister was a good person to have in the family?)

"Thank—"

"I meant it, Aunt Florrie." The last bride was burned. And the smoke, going up, looked wonderful. She looked up at Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, and her heart was light. Never another sermon—never another moment or hour of adjustment, of submission, of doing her duty and being sober and old and the right-minded meek Madison sister! Through!

"I will say no more, my poor child," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, preparing to move away. "For your aunt's sake, and for the sake of Bessie and Addison, with their splendid boy, I promise always to be your friend and to help you stay from the ideal I once believed you to follow. Goodby."

Poems That Live

THE NEW ARRIVAL

There came to port last Sunday night

The queerest little craft,
Without an inch of rigging on;
I looked and looked—and

laughed.
It seemed so curious that she Should cross the Unknown water,

And moor herself within my room—

My daughter! O, my daughter!
Yet by these presents witness all!

She's welcome fifty times,
And comes consigned in hope and love—

And common-metre rhymes.
She has no manifest but this;

No flag floats o'er the water;
She's too new for the British

Lloyds—
Ring out, wild bells—and tam-

ones too;
Ring out the lover's moon,
Ring in the little worsted socks

Ring in the bib and spoon,
Ring out the muse, ring in the nurse,

Ring in the milk and water,
Away with paper, pen, and ink—

My daughter! O, my daughter!

Acid Dyspepsia Associated With Ulcers of the Stomach

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE many forms of dyspepsia due to many causes. In some the complaint is a loss of appetite and a heavy, dragging feeling in the abdomen, with what the patients call ill-nourishment, and usually constipation. When the stomach contents of such patients is examined chemically, it is found that the amount of hydrochloric acid normally present in the gastric juice is reduced so that digestive processes do not go on as usual.

There is another and probably commoner form, however, in which the acid concentration of the gastric juice is greatly increased. For that reason, it is called "acid dyspepsia" or "hyperacidity."

It is associated with ulcer of the stomach too often for the connection to be accidental. Whether the ulcer causes the excess secretion, or whether the over-active gastric juice eats away at the stomach and causes the ulcer, is a debatable question. But some factor causes the loss of stomach surface, or, in other words, causes the ulcer, and that the excessive gastric juice keeps it open.

Whether acid dyspepsia can occur without ulcer is also a matter of opinion. Up to a few years ago it was generally assumed that it could. Then, when it began to open up the abdomen in such cases and, led by the eminent English surgeon, Dr. Trevelyan, showed that what was called "hyperacidity" by those who did not have the opportunity of actually seeing the stomach, was really always associated with ulcer. This was also before the days of X-ray and the confirmation that the X-ray gives to the diagnosis of ulcer was missing. With modern means of examination it is possible to determine the presence of ulcer without going to the extreme of an abdominal operation.

The symptoms of ulcer as shown by these investigations are quite regular, and vary little in different cases. There is distress (discomfort rather than pain) in relation to meals. If the ulcer is in the stomach, the distress follows immediately after meals. If the ulcer is on the duodenal side, just outside the stomach, the distress comes on when the stomach is empty, just before meals, and is relieved by food. Only in the severe cases and those of long duration is there either nausea or vomiting.

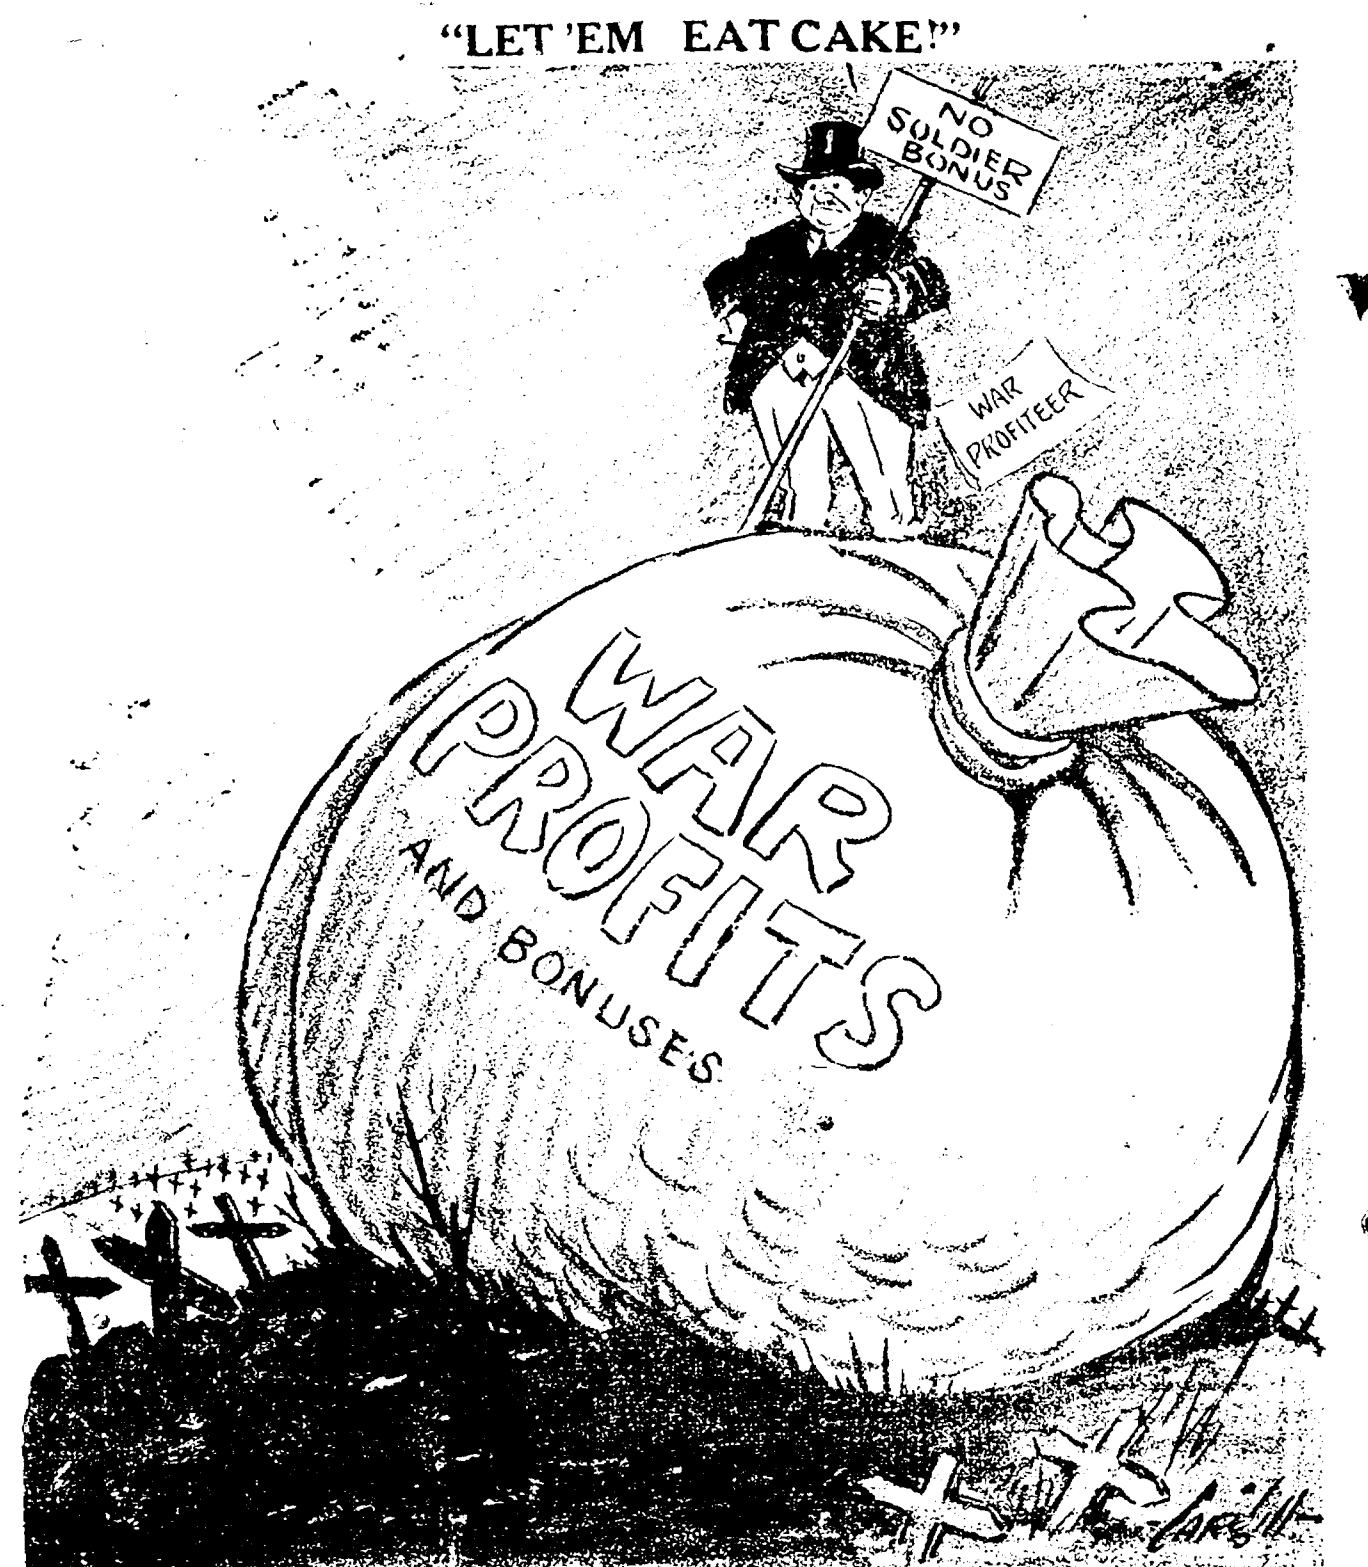

In spite of the digestive distress there is usually no loss of weight. Vomiting of blood may occur if the ulcer erodes a blood vessel. The distress is almost invariably relieved by alkalis, such as baking soda or milk of magnesia.

The cause of this distress in ulcer has been ingeniously investigated. It is possible to have a person swallow a small balloon, with a hollow rubber tube attached to the balloon coming out of the mouth. The balloon can be blown up through this hollow tube and then the tube attached to a recording machine. Every movement the stomach makes is transmitted to the balloon and from it to the recording machine. This has been done over and over again in ulcer patients. When they have distress they are so marked, and the record is so marked. Sometimes it is found that when the pain comes on in ulcer, the movements of the stomach are excessive, but usually it requires the introduction of hydrochloric acid into the stomach to cause the pain. This accounts for the good effects of the alkalis; they neutralize the excessive acid.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

HOW MUCH CAN SOUTH MAKE?

IT ALWAYS is a dangerous experiment to raise partner's opening game call. Partner may not hold game in his own cards. He may count upon you for two tricks at a suit make, or for at least one trick at no trump. South had so strong a hand that he decided to bid 3-No Trumps. North reasoned wisely when he jumped the call to 6-No Trumps. His argument was: "If my partner can bid game on his own cards, why cannot I raise him to a small slam upon three tricks? I have been unable to utilize his partner's club honors."

The next four tricks were taken with club winners. Declarer stripped his hand of his last two hearts. West followed suit to three leads of clubs, taking him through the tenth trick. The holdings about the table were as shown below.

♠ 9 6 4 3	♠ J 7 5 2
♥ 10 8	♥ J 5 3
♦ 5 4 2	♦ 10 7 3
♣ K Q J 7	♣ 9 8 6
♠ K 10 8	♠ A Q
♥ A 9 7 4	♥ K Q 6
♦ 2	♦ A K Q J 9 6
♣ 8	♣ A 2
♠ 10 5 4 3

Neither side was vulnerable. Counting upon the chances of winning at least one heart trick and one trick in spades, West doubled. When dummy went down, of course the declarer knew what the doubler must hold to expect to defeat the bid. The opening lead was the 4 of hearts. Dummy's 8 forced East's J. The Q won the trick. There were visible one spade, one heart, six diamonds.

We can't afford it. Mrs. G.—I know it—but you know it is such a great satisfaction to me to see a man eat a meal without fining fault with the cooking.

It wraps around—from the back! making it of course adjustable to the figure, easy to get into, and lifting it entirely and completely above the commonplace. And you may button up the rever if you wish. Plaid seersucker, in the new colors, a cotton flower print or cotton matelasse is smart for its making.

TOURNEY FINALS BEGIN AT 7

Scioto took the ball on the first tip and had it three-fourths of the time from then on. Gulick and Hoover, Scioto forwards, proved two of the best ball diggers seen in a tourney in a long while. The Scioto defense tied up lanky Everett Landman at all times; the big center caged only two points. The sharp-shooting of Rasor and Gulick kept New Holland in hot water and before long it was a desperate Bulldog team trying to catch the elusive Scioto Indians. The early lead gained by the Barricklow boys was never relinquished although, as recounted before, New Holland tied the count at 16 at the outset of the final session. Rasor, who sprained his ankle at the half but came back in to remain through the rest of the game, put his team into the lead again and it remained there.

Scioto's first quarter lead was 8-3, at the half it remained five points, 12-7, while at the three-quarter mark the lead had been slashed to 16-14.

Both Teams Weak

The Deercreek and Jackson game was a comedy of errors with the Williamsport team being forced to accept a victory, 28-22.

The first period score, Williamsport leading, was 9-2, the half was 20-10 and the third period, 23-17. Carter and Stonerock led the Williamsport scorers with 10 points each.

Hanson, Deercreek center, missed five consecutive foul shots, made two, missed one, made one and missed two more. Keller played best for Jackson.

Scioto is almost certain to go through the Deercreek team, but again you never can tell. The Darby-Walnut game should be interesting with most attention to be paid Green and Kaiser, forwards on the respective teams. Coach W. Griffith, of the Walnut team, is expected to put his ace, Ralph Dunkel, on the Darby ace while it is uncertain who Coach Joe Frasch will put on Kaiser.

Kroger Babb, though suffering from an injured side, is handling the whistle in his usual capable manner.

MUSKINGUM WHIPS OTTERBEIN TEAM

NEW CONCORD, Mar. 2—Muskingum college's cage squad braced its position in the Ohio conference today by defeating Otterbein, 4 to 35 last night.

The Muskies defeat Mt. Union Tuesday and someone upsets Baldwin-Wallace in the latter's two remaining games, the local squad will garner the title.

The game last night marked the dry-towners' last of the year. They ended the season with nine conference wins and three defeats, a fine record for a school of its size.

Forgeries Cost 250 Million
Losses from forgeries total more than 250,000,000 annually.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSESS

Hitler and You

New Holland's crowd was for New Holland last night but every one else was for Scioto. If Squirt Gulick would cut about a yard of hair off his head he will still be a better basketball player—Hoover, Scioto forward, handles the ball like the Waterloo team—Wilson, center, is a freshman—The New Holland-Scioto game was delayed a minute at the half when Ref Babb gave Barricklow time to get Rasor, crack guard, back on the floor; Rasor stumbled down the steps at the half and injured his ankle—A sub was necessary for a while but the sterling athlete went in as soon as he reached the court.

Ater Hunting 5-Cents

Chink Ater, who sells ice cream and anything else you want to buy, remained in the gymnasium 90 minutes after the ball game was over hunting a nickel knocked out of his hand when he got in the road of the ball—Ching didn't know what to think of the defeat of his Bulldogs—Ashville joined its ancient rival, Scioto, in cheering it was seen the Commercial Point boys had a chance—Ellsworth "Red" Trego, star of the Scioto team five years ago and now a star athlete at Capital university, has been helping Barricklow with the team—Coach Al Kauber, of Ashville, did not attend Friday's games.

Winfough in Center

As in every year that we can remember, Nelson Winfough of Five Points, pardon us, Points, is straddling the 50-yard line—the center of the court—Bob Peters, Ashville and Walnut fan who is now the king fish of the state's liquor store, used to park right beside him but Governor Davey insists that Mr. Peters work office hours so he can't see the tournament—There is a Ralph Dunkel and a Ralph Dunkel in the tourney; the former is with Pickaway, the latter is Walnut's pilot.

BILL BEITNER ENDS OHIO CAGE CAREER

COLUMBUS, Mar. 2—Bill Beitner of Dover, captain of Ohio State University's cage squad, will ring down the curtain on his collegiate basketball career tonight when the Bucks meet Michigan.

MAY "SEED" TEAMS

It was the consensus of opinion among superintendents of various county schools, meeting in the office of Supt. McDowell, Saturday, that teams next year would be "seeded."

WISCONSIN TEAM CERTAIN OF TIE

CHICAGO, Mar. 2—Wisconsin's basketball machine, leading the Western conference race, tonight clashes with Chicago here at the midway with an assured tie for the title awaiting the Wisconsin Badgers should they win.

Undisputed possession of the conference championship will go to Wisconsin should Coach Bud Foster's men win tonight and follow up with a victory in their final game at Purdue next Monday night.

Ohio State and Michigan clash at Columbus in a game having no bearing on the title, although the Buckeyes still have a chance to finish as high as a tie for second or third place.
